

Australian Association for
Infant Mental Health Inc.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

23-26 November 2017 | University of Melbourne

INVITATION TO NATIONAL CONFERENCE: The Infant, the State, Ethics & the Law

The 2017 Australian Association for Infant Mental Health Conference promises a celebration of infants and the work of all practitioners who support families and communities in caring for them.

The program will explore the complex systems that influence and govern our work. It will focus on the ideas that guide us, and matters that perplex and distress us, and that threaten to derail our thinking in our work with infants and families.

Themes will include:

1. The infant in families Assisted by Reproductive Technology
2. The infant seeking asylum
3. The infant's experience of family violence
4. The infant within the Child Protection System
5. The observed infant and clinical supervision

Speakers representing frontiers of practice across Australia have been invited to inform and lead our discussion. Delegates are invited to submit poster abstracts of 250 words before 21 July 2017.

AAIMHI (Vic) invites you to the 2017 National Conference. Come to meet, share and enjoy the companionship of colleagues and to be part of what will be a reflective, nourishing and stimulating conference for all.
